

Guiding Questions to Learn About Houses around the World

You will learn about houses around the world this week. To do your research, you will read several books and search on the Internet. While doing your research, make careful observations of the houses you see. Then, pick two houses from different parts of the world and compare them with each other. Next, compare these two houses with your house. Finally, answer the following questions to report your research. You will share your answers with your classmates after the research is over.

1. Which country are the houses built?
2. Do these houses have specific names? If yes, what are they called?
3. What materials were used to build the houses?
4. How are these two houses similar to and different from each other?
