

Author Guidelines and Note Sheet

- You are a paleontologist which is a person who studies fossils and preparing to write an article for a science journal.
- You may interview experts or collect information online from their websites to include in the article.
- Gather your notes by completing the questions below. Then use the next sheet to write your article.

Topic: Why are dragonflies considered living fossils?

What is a living fossil?

How do living fossils help scientists?

The following images are of fossils of a prehistoric dragonfly. Explain what you see in the fossil.

The following are images of modern day dragonflies. What are the similarities between these and the fossils of dragonflies.

