Dear Chairmen Cochran and Blunt and Ranking Members Mikulski and Murray:

The undersigned organizations write to request that the Committee provide full funding for the Student Support and Academic Enrichment Grants (SSAEG), found in Title IV, Part A of the bipartisan Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA).

The SSAEG program, authorized at $1.65 billion for FY17, is the result of Congress' decision to consolidate more than 20 existing programs, most of which were competitive, into a single formula-funded flexible block grant program that allows districts to choose where best to spend their SSAEG dollars in order to help all students develop the skills essential for learning readiness and academic success. These programs include: safe and healthy students activities, such as providing mental health services to students; increasing student access to STEM, computer science and accelerated learning courses, physical education, the arts, music, foreign languages and college and career counseling; funds for an effective school library program; and providing students with access to technology and digital materials and educators with technology professional development opportunities.

We make this request because we believe that the Committee's approved FY17 appropriations level for this program is grossly inadequate. Specifically, the Committee proposes to fund this program at $300 million, which is a fraction of the authorized funding level to which Congress and the President agreed less than one year ago. This would have devastating consequences in all schools districts. For example, Jackson Public Schools in Mississippi, which would receive $1.971 million in FY17 if Title IVA receives full funding, would only receive $286,000 should the Senate approved figure become law. Similarly, Baltimore City Schools in Maryland faces the prospect of losing $4.245 million from a full Title IVA allocation if this program receives only $300 million in FY17 appropriations.

Beyond the financial challenges of such a low funding level, the amount approved by the Committee for SSAEG will not allow states and districts to make meaningful investments in a range of programs that, when combined, improve conditions for learning and help students receive a well-rounded education. It would force school districts to choose between high-quality programs that positively impact students in different ways – trading off school counseling services for Advanced Placement programs, for instance, thereby jeopardizing the greater flexibility for districts and schools that Congress intended.

Furthermore, funding this program at such a low level would necessitate turning this program into a competitive grant program, circumventing Congress' plain intent in ESSA. A competitive program would significantly disadvantage smaller, more rural school districts as they often lack the capacity to apply for funding and, even if they do apply, face the prospect of receiving no money at all.

Lastly, underfunding this program in its first year of authorization severely hinders the program from being implemented effectively and sets the program up for steep cuts and lower appropriations in future years.

On behalf of the millions of students, parents and educators that we collectively represent, we urge you to appropriate the full $1.65 billion authorized level for the Student Support and Academic Enrichment Grants.

Sincerely,
