

A Recipe for Invention: Scientist Biographies

by

Traci E. Morris and Susannah Gal
Department of Biological Sciences
Binghamton University

This case is unusual in that there is no “case” per se. Instructors should consult the detailed teaching notes, which contain information on suggested activities, student instructions, and lists of scientists for biographical research and study. Instructors who wish to may create their own version of a case for their students from the materials provided in the teaching notes.

